Digitally C-O-O-L... PicLens

With over 11 billion monthly streams in the U.S. alone, online video is thriving. If you'd like a mind-blowing full-screen 3D viewing experience while checking out online photos and videos, try this FREE plugin. There are versions for both Mac OS and Windows. PicLens works with browsers Firefox, Internet Explorer and Safari.

What will it do? PicLens will go out and find videos FOR you of your favorite subject, or anything you specify. Search Amazon, YouTube, Google, Flickr, Facebook, MySpace, Friendster, Bebo, Hi5, Smugmug, FotoTime, Fotki, Photobucket.

You can search for images -- i.e. Ask images, Yahoo images, Google images, Live Images, AOL images, you get the idea...

Don't know what to search for? Clicking on the PicLens icon in your browser menu takes you to their "Discover" page if you are not already on a PicLens site. Listed on the left are numerous categories i.e. fashion, sports, international sports, business, news, entertainment, etc. You can choose to read the latest news, watch movie trailers, or just learn about something new. Or, from the PicLens "Discover" page click on "Search" and specify the topic you'd like to see videos of...i.e. horses, sports, business, etc. You will be taken to a dizzying array of videos, in quick order! Just click on one that interests you. When ready, move on. Very COOL.

Install Method: After downloading PicLens, add it to your toolbar by going to View>Toolbar>Customize and choose the PicLens logo that looks like this:  Change the order of your icons if you like, while you're at it. Then, visit a PicLens supported site. Click the PicLens icon and off you go! If you are NOT at a PicLens site, and you click the PicLens icon in your browser toolbar, you will find yourself at the very cool 'Discovery' page. Enjoy, and try not to get dizzy by looking at the vast array of video choices!

At Last! An easy way to match cellphone
to carrier...

While shopping on the Internet for cool cellphones/ smart-phones, I have frequently oohed and ahhh'd over models, unable to determine what U.S. carriers support them. I once went to an AT&T storefront for a particular phone the vendor indicated was AT&T's, but no-one at the store had ever heard of it.

Most of the best smartphones have full-featured versions that are only available from European carriers. Some of those had U.S. versions incorporating some -- not all, of the phone's capabilities. I generally found this out after contacting the online vendor, if they bothered to get back to me.

cellswolesale has a drop-down menu listing phones, both U.S.A. and International and what carrier a particular phone is compatible with ;-). I discovered cellswolesale by doing some research on the highly rated LG Prada KE850 phone, which is a GSM 900,1800, 1900 MHz phone. Right away, I thought AT&T and T-Mobile. Just to be sure, I checked and yes, I received the definitive message that Verizon is INCOMPATIBLE.

This worthwhile resource is a consumer friendly site that covers a long list of phones. Also available are specs, photos & video clip review(s), details on rebates, etc.

Tracking your Teenagers

How would you like a GPS system that can text message you with the location of your teenagers AND set a speed limit for your teenage drivers? When your kids drive too fast or go somewhere they're not supposed to, you can have a text message sent to your wireless phone. Check out Success Stories HERE.

Inilex's Vehicle Interface Module [VIM] is a security solution that has the ability to do that and more. The Inilex ViM plugs into the car and offers many remote-control tasks, like retrieve stolen vehicles, unlock doors, set alarms, start the engine, check tire pressure, track your employees on the road, etc. and you access the data from a PC or cell phone.

Inilex Kepler Advantage is a GPS hardware unit that is installed in your vehicle & plugs into a car's data bus. You access your vehicle wirelessly—via any phone or Internet connection—through its onboard computer. Superior to LoJack, Inilex's VIM was rolled out at Demo '07. Confirmed! Estrogen Replacement Therapy Caused My Breast Cancer :-{

A warning to all of you out there... do NOT stay on replacement estrogen to avoid hot flashes. If not careful, you could end up with Cancer and Hot Flashes! ...like me.

The Medical Community has proven, through studies, documented cases and scientific fact, that high levels of estrogen can and with alarming speed, DOES contribute to or cause, breast cancer.

Replacement methods aside, recent studies also reveal that overweight women are at a higher risk for breast cancer because fat cells manufacture estrogen and too much estrogen is a VERY dangerous thing.

For five years I must take a drug that 'rids the body of estrogen' in an effort to avoid cancer in the future. For more health resources, and the Mayo Clinic's Fat Burning Soup recipe, visit:
